Vladimir Godoroja

Freelance Translator
Chisinau, Chisinau, Moldova

Summary

My interest in languages comes from high school, where I studied Romanian, Russian, French and English. In university I challenged myself to learn a new language, which was Spanish. I am a Linux user who follows the open source projects.

Experience

Self-employed
Translator
October 2008 - Present
Chisinau, Moldova

I started building my freelancer career back in my university years. The labor market being overcrowded with job seekers made me research the online world. My first projects were awarded on oDesk. One of my first clients was G.R.E.S. Bio Green Solutions. I translated their fresh website into Romanian.

Later I signed up on Elance and Freelancer and had some projects here and there. During that time I had my first local project with Cortem Group. They needed a Romanian translator for their CAD project. I never saw a CAD file before, so I had to learn it as quick as possible. Qcad was the soft I used to work on that project. That open sourced app let me find Linux. I switched from Windows to Linux shortly, and never back again.

I have been on Fiverr since 2013. It is the most successful platform for me so far.

I have my personal website up and I run a blog.
